ELKO — Community, family and friends are gathering at the Red Lion parking lot for a car wash and home-made burrito sale to benefit the widow of Erik Espitia.

Espitia was shot early in the morning on May 27 in the downtown corridor.

The car wash started at noon and will go until 4 p.m. Donations are being accepted and burritos cost $3.

Nicole Quijada, a family friend, started organizing the car wash at the beginning of the week.

“When the incident happened, I knew I needed to put something together for the family,” she said.

Donations for Espitia’s widow and his children are being accepted at Wells Fargo in the Erik Espitia Memorial Fund.
